North Carolina Milk Commission

April 4, 1989

Grady Cooper, Jr.
Executive Secretary
Nell B. Sinclair, Jr.
Assistant Executive Secretary

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING

TO: COMMISSION MEMBERS AND INTERESTED PARTIES

The Milk Commission will hold a special meeting on Tuesday, April 11, 1989, at 9:00 a.m., by electronic means through the use of a telephone conference call, as provided for in G.S. 143-318.13.

This meeting is being called by the Commission for the purpose of considering a statement which the Commission would authorize Mr. Poisson to present in the federal order hearing for North and South Carolina which is scheduled to begin on April 17, 1989.

Any interested party, upon payment of a $5.00 fee, may listen to this meeting in Room 4018, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Grady Cooper, Jr.
Executive Secretary

Well, excuuuuuuuuuse us if we're less than mooved by the state Milk Commission's commitment to free and open government. C'mon guys, charging a fee for listening in on a public meeting? We always thought the farmers did the milking. Or is this just a case of skimming the cream? Whatever, we're udderly certain the commission could find a way to conduct its business without charge to farmers and other interested citizens.

Meanwhile, if you've got a beef with a memorable memorandum, don't be cowed. Just farm it out to Insight. Anonymity guaranteed, and that's no bull.
